Coins for Kids

Program Summary

COINS FOR KIDS is a competition program that provides students with the opportunity to better understand the lives of children in Tanzania. It is specifically targeted to help orphaned and abandoned children in Tanzania, of which there were over 2.5 million last year!

By collecting quarters, dimes, nickels or pennies (which are often dumped into drawers or lost between sofa cushions), the program enables children to see that everything and everyone (including themselves) has worth!

It also offers students the opportunity to learn about children in another culture, increase their math skills, and see that their actions can make a difference in the world.

By making the program competitive, excitement and incentive is also added to the project. The competition can be run against a goal set by a group of students in a class, grade, or school. It can also be run between students in a class, between classes, home rooms or grade levels, or between schools in a community.

How does it work?

- ❖ Students get permission, if necessary, from a parent or guardian to participate in the fundraising part of the program.
- ❖ A fundraising goal is set and a time period decided by Program leaders.
- ❖ Students decorate containers to put around the school (and, if school leaders agree, in the community).
- ❖ Leaders decide which learning activities will be used.
